Quadratic Cares

<https://www.quadratic.com/page/quadratic-cares-grant-program>

Over the years, Quadratic has proudly awarded environmental-restoration grants to scores of groups and individuals through our Quadratic Cares Restoration for Recreation program. In the process, we've seen trails and off-road facilities from Maine to California benefit. But more importantly, we understand that another great way to promote environmental responsibility is to energize those in the community who have a vision, a sense of responsibility, for making our environmental world a better place. We are offering two $3,500 environmental grants per year – one each in the spring and fall – to an individual or group currently pursuing a program or initiative designed to benefit our environment.

Quality of Life Grant

<https://www.christopherreeve.org/todays-care/get-support/grants-for-non-profits/application-process/>

The Quality of Life Grants Program strives to empower individuals with disabilities and their families by providing grants to nonprofit organizations that improve quality of life through inclusion, access, independence, opportunities for community engagement, and other life-enhancing endeavors. The three areas of priority funding are: Actively Achieving, Bridging Barriers, or Caring and Coping. The application process is open to all types of organizations, including non-profits, local governments, school districts, and tribal entities. It is crucial that candidates ensure that opportunities are available for individuals with disabilities to take part in activities that engage their body and mind. Activities must also promote independence and personal growth.
